

HAVE YOU MADE YOUR WILL?

In The Covington News, Andalusia, Alabama, issue of April 2, the following news item appeared:

"A notice of final settlement of the administration by H. J. Law upon the estate of D. J. Law, deceased, which appears elsewhere in this paper, presents an unusual condition. Upon the death of D. J. Law some years ago John I. Deens was appointed administrator. Mr. Deens died and his executors, Carl W. Hall and Rev. Willis, made a settlement for him, and Henry J. Law was appointed administrator de bonis non. Henry J. Law died without having made a final settlement of his administration and his executrix, Mrs. Jennie Law, will make a settlement of his administration upon the estate of D. J. Law. Then a second administrator de bonis non will have to be appointed on the estate of D. J. Law, deceased, to succeed H. J. Law, administrator, de bonis non, deceased."

Does This Mean Anything To You?

Do you realize the unnecessary expense and lawyer's fee that the heirs of the late D. J. Law had to pay just because he failed to make a will appointing some Bank with Trust powers as administrator of his estate?

The D. J. Law estate has already had two administrators and two court settlements, and now a third administrator will have to be appointed, whereas if some Bank with Trust powers had been appointed a large portion of this expense would have been avoided.

Some of the advantages in appointing a Bank with Trust powers to administer your estate are as follows:

First. EXPENSE OF ADMINISTRATION.

If you appoint a Bank as administrator no other appointment will have to be made as the Bank's charter to do business runs continuously, and the fees for winding up an estate are fixed by law and cannot be changed, and are the same for a Bank as an individual. A false impression has existed that a Bank can charge more for administering an estate than an individual.

Second. SAFETY.

Where an individual is appointed as administrator, that individual can die or misappropriate the funds of an estate, but this is not true of a Bank.

High School Students To Have Public Debate

The first high school debate in Elba in several years will be held at the school auditorium Friday night of this week. There will be no admission charge and the public is cordially invited.

The debate will be between the two literary societies of the Elba High School on the subject, "Resolved, That Universal Disarmament is the Best Way to Insure World Peace."

Dr. W. C. Braswell of Elba was elected president; W. B. Pender of Greenwood, Fla., first vice-president; N. C. Wood of Abbeville, second vice-president; J. O. Deane of Dothan, secretary, and F. Snell of Dothan, treasurer. The officers and the following were elected directors: Buford Kiser of Goshen, Joe Peacock of Hartford, J. L. Gant of Gant, A. D. Jackson of Glendon, and C. M. Parrish of Greenville.

Articles of incorporation, by-laws, and a marketing agreement were prepared and adopted by the directors. The purpose of the association, as stated, is to promote, foster, encourage, and encourage the business of marketing peanuts.

The growers were addressed by the directors, who urged them to take charge of their own destiny and to live in business in the future. For the past year and a half, the organization has been in existence, and it is hoped that it will be a success in the future.

The above will be read with interest in Elba, as Mr. and Mrs. Grant are well known here. Mrs. Grant was before her marriage Miss Louise Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Lee.

HAVE YOU MADE YOUR WILL?

In The Covington News, Andalusia, Alabama, issue of April 2, the following news item appeared:

"A notice of final settlement of the administration by H. J. Law upon the estate of D. J. Law, deceased, which appears elsewhere in this paper, presents an unusual condition. Upon the death of D. J. Law some years ago John I. Deens was appointed administrator. Mr. Deens died and his executors, Carl W. Hall and Rev. Willis, made a settlement for him, and Henry J. Law was appointed administrator de bonis non. Henry J. Law died without having made a final settlement of his administration and his executrix, Mrs. Jennie Law, will make a settlement of his administration upon the estate of D. J. Law. Then a second administrator de bonis non will have to be appointed on the estate of D. J. Law, deceased, to succeed H. J. Law, administrator, de bonis non, deceased."

Does This Mean Anything To You?

Do you realize the unnecessary expense and lawyer's fee that the heirs of the late D. J. Law had to pay just because he failed to make a will appointing some Bank with Trust powers as administrator of his estate?

The D. J. Law estate has already had two administrators and two court settlements, and now a third administrator will have to be appointed, whereas if some Bank with Trust powers had been appointed a large portion of this expense would have been avoided.

Some of the advantages in appointing a Bank with Trust powers to administer your estate are as follows:

First. EXPENSE OF ADMINISTRATION.

If you appoint a Bank as administrator no other appointment will have to be made as the Bank's charter to do business runs continuously, and the fees for winding up an estate are fixed by law and cannot be changed, and are the same for a Bank as an individual. A false impression has existed that a Bank can charge more for administering an estate than an individual.

Second. SAFETY.

Where an individual is appointed as administrator, that individual can die or be misappropriated the funds of an estate, but this is not true of a Bank.

The Bank's charter to do business runs continuously, and before a Bank that is appointed administrator or guardian of an estate can deposit money belonging to that estate in its own Bank it must first buy bonds of the United States, State of Alabama, or other securities satisfactory to the Federal Reserve Board, and secure that estate for every dollar deposited in said Bank. In other words, a trust Bank cannot mingle the funds of an estate with the other deposits of the Bank, but must absolutely protect the estate. Could your estate be handled any safer?

Third. BUSINESS ABILITY.

The officers of this Bank have made a success of their own affairs and are in active business; therefore, they will know better how to wind up your estate for the benefit of your heirs than the ordinary individual. Their success in winding up each estate means a great deal to the Bank in future business, whereas the individual has no incentive along that line. It is very possible that in handling your estate this Bank could save your heirs many times the small charge made for acting as Executor.

If you have not made a will you should go to a reputable lawyer and have him draw a will as you wish your estate divided after your death, and if our Bank is satisfactory we would be glad for you to name it as the Executor of your will, with the understanding that we will use as the attorney in winding up your estate the lawyer of your choice.

REFUGEE TELLS OF TOWNS BURNED BY NICARAGAN BANDS

MOBILE, April 21.—Robert C. Sellers of Chapel Hill, N. C., first refugee from the terrordriven Nicaraguan revolution area to reach Mobile, related a story of bandit fighting and burned towns when he arrived here on board the United Fruit Company steamer Niara.

Excited refugees fleeing to any point of safety and fearing constantly they would be molested by some of the bandits, told almost unbelievable stories, he said, of how they had been forced to abandon their homes and seek safety elsewhere.

Sellers left Cabo Gracias a Dios Monday of last week, believing that said, it would be best to come back to his home land. Two days after his departure, a report reached him that the town had been raided and burned by bandits. When his steamer passed there later it appeared to be very peaceful, he declared.

"We found it had not been burned," he said, "and while it appeared to be quiet, you cannot tell about those towns on such occasions."

He expressed fear for the safety of friends he had known in the territory. He mentioned one in particular, a wireless operator by the name of E. C. Lester, who had one of the three guns in the possession of foreigners. I had been smuggled in by the radio operator, according to Sellers. The other two guns were owned by the chief of police and himself.

"There are about 300 native down there and only three Americans, several Germans and a Britisher. The Indians hate the Americans and decide among themselves who will be the next 'American' to get. There is not much water or food there," he said.

Furthermore, the Americans do not feel very safe in the territory. The attitude of the natives, Sellers declared.

Sellers was in the Nicaraguan revolution territory about 10 days, having gone there to work. Upon the arrival he found the territory was supposed to get was not available and after realizing the revolutionary condition of the country, decided to return home.

Mr. Sellers, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Wiley Thomas of the Salem community, was killed when he was tangled in the wire of a day being thrown from a mule, and was dragged for several miles to his home. After finishing the day's plowing, the boy unlatched the mule and got on him to ride home. The mule, which had never been ridden before, became unruly and threw the boy, who was caught in the harness as he fell. The boy lay about 2 hours after being found. Funeral services were held at Salem. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Wiley Thomas, four sisters and two brothers.

Mrs. Sallie Pugh died suddenly last Friday.

Mrs. Sallie Pugh, 80 years of age, died suddenly at her home on Glenwood, Route 2, last Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock. She was the widow of the late Frank Pugh. Mrs. Pugh was born in Pike County on November 25, 1850.

Surviving are two daughters and four sons; also one brother and one sister. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Hill of Elba, Route 1, on Saturday at Oak Grove cemetery in Pike County, and the body was laid to rest there. Elba Hardware & Furniture Company were in charge.

Roy and Donald McDowell returned from Cincinnati, Ohio, Tuesday and will return to Miami after visiting Rude Howard at DeMarcus, Ga., for a few days. They report that employment conditions were worse in Ohio than in the South.

Mrs. Barbara Duke and little grandson, Colquitt Hix, of Birmingham are visiting Mrs. Duke's sister, Mrs. W. M. Tucker, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Enterprise, where he is connected with Peacock-Warren Motor Company of that place.

Frank Lane returned to Port Benning the first of the week, after spending several days at his home in Elba.

Friends are glad to see Alton Lane out of bed again, after suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

The case was given to the jury at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, the verdict being reached late in the evening of the day.

The case of Mrs. Annie Laurie Bradwell, jointly indicted with her husband, will not be called at this kind of court, it is understood.

Troy Messenger.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brooks visited Mrs. Brooks' parents in Enterprise Friday night.

Mrs. O. Dowling, Mrs. W. H. Whitman and Miss Doris White were out to Montgomery shopping on Wednesday last week.

Do you ever travel the road from Elba to New Brocken? If you do, then I want you to watch out for a gopher hole in the road, about half way from Elba to Brocken. It is near a school house. Now that is what I call a first class garden. Boy, you should look in that garden and notice what is in there. It will make you hungry to see the good things there are in that garden. They have about anything and everything you can think of that grows in this county to eat at this time of the year.

Well, Sallie and me got over four dollars this week out of our store. Sallie got the money and I got the goods. However, that is all right, as Sallie will have to buy the groceries from now on. She fusses at me some about not helping her out with the little things we have to buy, but I shure don't do no good. Sallie says the money we get from what we sell and I can't get any money at all. What is the matter with money, and, of course, I can't spend no money, as my credit is all right. It is a awful thing for a man to get to where he has no credit. I never did try to beat the game, but I have been told, if I did, he said, he explained that one of the functions of the Farm Bureau is to assist farmers in setting-up commodity marketing associations. Mr. Director Duncan assured the growers that the Alabama extension service would also render all possible to make the association of the crop and the interests of producers.

Gibson announced that it is expected similar organizations will be formed in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. Later he said, the intention is to form a national peanut marketing association.

Kindred Gets Two Years For Murder At Troy

Willie Kindred, whose trial last week drew one of the largest crowds ever seen at the county court house, was found guilty of the murder of his wife, and sentenced to two years by the jury. Into whose hands his fate was given.

Kindred was on trial for the murder of his wife, Alex Kindred, which occurred last February 21st, at Saco, in the northern part of Pike County.

Sensational evidence introduced at the trial, including the testimony of attorneys, when Mrs. Alex Kindred, widow of the slain man, was put on the stand, as no doubt responsible for the light sentence given by the defendant.

The case was given to the jury at 3:30 p. m. Saturday, the verdict being reached late in the evening of the day.

The case of Mrs. Annie Laurie Bradwell, jointly indicted with her husband, will not be called at this kind of court, it is understood.

Mrs. O. Dowling, Mrs. W. H. Whitman and Miss Doris White were out to Montgomery shopping on Wednesday last week.

Do you ever travel the road from Elba to New Brocken? If you do, then I want you to watch out for a gopher hole in the road, about half way from Elba to Brocken. It is near a school house. Now that is what I call a first class garden. Boy, you should look in that garden and notice what is in there. It will make you hungry to see the good things there are in that garden. They have about anything and everything you can think of that grows in this county to eat at this time of the year.

Well, Sallie and me got over four dollars this week out of our store. Sallie got the money and I got the goods. However, that is all right, as Sallie will have to buy the groceries from now on. She fusses at me some about not helping her out with the little things we have to buy, but I shure don't do no good. Sallie says the money we get from what we sell and I can't get any money at all. What is the matter with money, and, of course, I can't spend no money, as my credit is all right. It is a awful thing for a man to get to where he has no credit. I never did try to beat the game, but I have been told, if I did, he said, he explained that one of the functions of the Farm Bureau is to assist farmers in setting-up commodity marketing associations. Mr. Director Duncan assured the growers that the Alabama extension service would also render all possible to make the association of the crop and the interests of producers.
